For State Treasurer,
FRANZ AMBERG,
Superintendent of Public Instruction,
RICHARD EDWARDS,
Trustees Illinois, J. C. G. NEELY,
University, J. CHARLES BENNETT,
Clark Supreme Court,
JAMES J. FINN,
Clerk Appellate Court,
L. C. MURPHY,
For Congress,
JONATHAN H. BOWELL.

JUPITER is now visible in the heavens with copper-colored rings around him. This betokens the nomination of David B. Hill of New York for President by the Tammany Democracy. The similarity of the environments of Hill and Jupiter are very similar, and then a sun shine for each.

It is said that a firm is advertising a large number of refrigerators for sale at 50 cents on the dollar. We would suggest that the humane societies of the country take advantage of these reduced prices and place a refrigerator in every Calvary Church, Bowing editor's sanctum in the North. The South can be relied upon to furnish the ice.

A sun has just been entered in New York to wind up the affairs of the sugar trust. The sugar trust is a Democratic concern which had a hand in arranging the sugar schedule in the Mills tariff bill, and we insist that any effort to wind up the concern by invoking the power of the courts is an unwarranted infringement upon the rights of American citizens and is akin to the spirit of the Fugitive.

It is necessary to remind the Review that Mr. Peter's salary was fixed by a Democratic council in my understanding, and not by a Republican council. Gentlemen, you are in a bad way when you can arm yourselves only with banningers. Reb.

The Review still insists that the republican council which is said to have fixed the salary of Mr. Peter as city-clerk was a Republican council, and hence it assumes that Mr. Peter is justified in taking it. Mr. Peter's salary is supposed to have been fixed at $1200 a year two years ago. Then the council is responsible for it to no objection is raised; but the so-called Republican council is not responsible for about $200 a year which Mr. Peter collects for fees, for issuing leases, and pockets; and for about $300 a year that he pockets for issuing burial permits. Neither is the old so-called Republican council responsible for Mr. Peter, as a city officer, becoming interested in the Hunt sewer contract in violation of the following statutory law:

Neither shall be directly or indirectly interested in any contract or work or leases of the city or the sale of any article the expense price or consideration of which is paid from the treasury or by any assessment levied by any act or ordinance.

Nor is that council responsible for Mr. Peter's conduct in discriminating in favor of certain water takers in the matter of penalties, by which some are required to pay penalties while others are not, in direct violation of the ordinance fixing the rate, time of payment, and penalties in the matter of water rates. But unless the Review's reform Democratic council, in due time, investigates that Democratic office, it will become morally responsible for the irregularities to which we refer.

That English Market.

The Review shaketh its fist at us this morning and tells us that we have misquoted what it said about the Liverpool market, and announces that all it said was, "that wheat brings a better price in England than in the United States." It is all the Review's party is fighting it out now on General Grant's line.

MANAGE A. F. SMITH has spared neither time nor expense to make the National Prohibition camp meeting a success, and has taken special pains to make the opening day, Thursday, July 31, one of great interest. On that day there will be a large street parade, headed by Goebel's Band. The management request the merchants to decorate their places of business, and the residences, so as to give the visitors a great welcome.

If the protection policy of the United States deserves credit for the 57 cents that wheat brought in Chicago, should not the free trade policy of England get credit for the 51 that it brought in Liverpool? The Review's party of the farmer of Illinois who is a citizen of this market can surmise this comparison as it stands just as far as he pleases. He will find that every one of his products sell at a better price in free trade England than in the United States.

By the time the Review puts free trade and protection as to their results on the farmer in comparison, every honest reader knows that the Review's object was to make our farmers believe that England's economic policy is better than that our American policy of protection. That is what the Review did, notwithstanding its present denial. The trouble with the Review and its comparison is that it don't work well on the farmer, on account of the fact, as pointed out by the Republican, that the free trade policy of England was adopted because wheat was too high for the laboring people. England has done what it could to cheapen the product of the farmer; it has gotten the price of wheat as low as it possibly can, and its only hope to get it lower is the establishment of the Democratic free trade theory in America. Wheat is high in England because England is compelled to import wheat. Wheat is high in Alaska because Alaska has to import wheat. The same would be true in America or any other country just in proportion to the excess of demand for wheat over its production in the same country. The Review has been unfortunate in its wiles and that is all there is in it.

The Boycott.

The Northern people will simply not endure it. Their opinions are not for sale. Their goods, and not their principles, are in the market. To be told that unless we vote as we intended down on the Suwanee river, there could be no Southern market for Northern manufacturers would make the most hide-bound hemlock peddler a Northern—New York Herald (Ind. Dem.)

Boycotting is not what we need in the serious contest precipitated by the un-American force bill, but concert of action with the Democratic of the North and with the farmers, so as to secure a Democratic majority in the House of Representatives that will refuse to pay the expenses necessary in the enforcement of the force bill, and thus render the Southern inoperative. Boycotting is only in such a war as the attempt by our ancient British forefathers to frighten the Romans by putting more pain on their faces. Mongrel Commercial (straight Dem.)

Now that the threat has been made it would be well for all the people in the country to think it over. The consequence of such a boycott will be formidable. Let the people of the North pause before they permit their mad rulers to drive them to such extremes. As for the people of the South, they must depend upon themselves if they shall be driven out. New Orleans Picayune (Dem.)

In these extracts we have another climax brought on by the teachings of the Democratic party. That teaching has been extant since the organization of the government and consists in the assumption that under the constitution the states are superior to the National government. The first climax of that teaching was the nullification acts of South Carolina and the declarations of that day, that a state under the constitution had a right to withdraw from the Union. The second climax was the withdrawal of the southern states from the Union.

The present climax is the declaration that if the Federal election bill—which is as assumption on the part of the government, sustained by the decisions of the courts, that it has a right under the constitution to enact an election law general in its character and applicable alike to all the states, for the purpose of supervising the election of congressmen and presidential electors—is enacted into law, that law shall be nullified, or that the South will boycott the business of the North until the North surrenders its views of the power of the government.

The first extract proves that as there were Northern Democrats in the days of nullification and in the days of secession—so there are now Northern Democrats who refuse to be dictated to or bullied into submission by the Southern oligarchy. The confidence of the South in its ability to order the Northern Democrats into line is seen in the extract from the Memphis Commercial where it suggests that a united Democracy will unify the law by refusing to appropriate money to carry the law into effect. It is high time that the Northern people awoke to the fact that the results of the war have not been adopted by the South, and to show these people as they did in 1861-62 that the Government has the power and the courage to protect itself against the bullying or even the overt acts of the South.

JAMES GLAZEBROOK, the accommodating clerk at the Central House, had an experience yesterday afternoon that has set his friends many a hearty laugh. He discovered some old fireworks hidden away at the depot and attempted a celebration. He took one of the sky-rockets to the window and proceeded to fire it off. Thinking he could hold the stick, light the fuse and then drop it before it was discharged, he applied a match, but the blazed thing went off too soon and Jim was somewhat alarmed. It caused a great deal of smoke but did no damage.

In the Illinois House Friday a resolution that the Columbian Fair be held on one site was debated at great length and finally made the special order for Tuesday next at 10 a.m.

INDIANAPOLIS Journal: General Grant once said, "It is the natural right of every citizen to vote once at every election, and to have that vote counted." The Review's party is fighting it out now on General Grant's line.

MANAGE A. F. SMITH has spared neither time nor expense to make the National Prohibition camp meeting a success, and has taken special pains to make the opening day, Thursday, July 31, one of great interest. On that day there will be a large street parade, headed by Goebel's Band. The management request the merchants to decorate their places of business, and the residences, so as to give the visitors a great welcome.

A RECOUNT of the census report of Sangamon County makes the population slightly over 60,000, which if it proves correct on the final count will entitle the county to a recorder.

A GASOLINE stove in the Motherspangh saloon on East Main street brought out the fire department at yesterday afternoon. Fire out before firemen arrived to throw water. Damage slight.
